PRECISION SUPPLY IS FIRST TO INSTALL NEW ACCU-PORT: RFID SOLUTIONS

As the largest distributor of Cribmaster in the USA, Precision Supply has become the first company to install the newest and most innovative technology designed by Cribmaster to date: the Accu-Port. As industry profits increase, inventory becomes more difficult to manage. For the past 33 years, Precision Supply has provided superior service for their customers by developing and utilizing the best technology and processes available. Since Cribmaster was established in 1992, Precision Supply has been on board with all of their latest advancements. “Our customers are our number one concern,” said Bob Koch, President of Precision Supply. “If there is any new technological advancement out there that will benefit them in any way, we’re on board with it.”

The Accu-Port is a total hands-free operation that allows Precision Supply customers to easily manage their inventory because they literally don’t have to do anything but carry their materials through the door. Employees first walk to a caged area containing tools, MRO items, safety products, maintenance parts, or any other indirect materials used to keep the facility going. As they step into the doorway their name badge sounds off audibly, the door unlocks (given they have permission to enter the crib) and they enter to retrieve their items. Once they have gathered all of their items, the employee simply pushes the exit button to unlock the Accu-Port and walks back through the Accu-Port which records a transaction for each item they took as they walk away.

Precision Supply customers no longer have to concern themselves with vending, scanning, or any other process involved with retrieving items. Everything is done automatically for them with a simple press of the button! The Accu-Port has multiple cage sizes and label packages, eliminates pilferage, and helps to improve inventory accuracy. Employees even have the ability to carry an entire bin or cart of items through the Accu-Port and accurately track every item!

The Accu-Port is the newest advancement in managing inventory. However, Precision Supply has also installed and utilized many other inventory management solutions including Kan Ban Scanners, ToolBox and Lockers, and the ToolCube. No other company has installed more Accu-Ports than Precision Supply. The various options involved with inventory management are constantly changing and Precision Supply works hard to keep up to date and on track with all of the latest technology and developments.
